TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR ROOM. Wilson's troupe which presented "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Friday night, put on "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" Saturday night. They had a fairly full house, the only excuse for which was that the audience probably considered any old play better than no play at all. Certain it is that the merits of the troupe cut no figures. But in places where good shows are few and far between even a dog fight or a break the monkey would draw a crowd. The least that can be said was that the play was flat. The most thrilling parts were so ridiculously tame as to make the whole plot look like an ancient joke.

The Grand Trunk Pacific.

Montreal, Jan. 21.—The Grand Trunk Pacific will certainly apply for a cash and land subsidy from the Dominion, besides asking the country to guarantee interest on its bond issue. They want to know his views and that of the government, in order to be in a better position to direct the operations of the engineers, who will start out next month to locate the road.

If the subsidies asked for are granted, the company will locate the road in such localities as may best suit the Canadian government and people. If the subsidies are refused, however, the road will be built for the convenience of the company alone, as a private enterprise, pure and simple.

CATTLE

The advisability of going more into cattle raising cannot be expressed too often or too strongly upon the farmers of Northern Alberta, and especially of this Edmonton district where the tendency in some of the best sections is towards grain to the neglect of cattle. There are three foundation reasons why cattle are a better financial proposition in this Far Northwest than grain.

First: The proportion of freight charge to total value is much less on cattle than on grain. It takes more than half a bushel of wheat to take a bushel to Montreal; while a quarter of a pound of live beef will take a pound to the same port. Therefore the farmer who ships wheat is paying just twice as much out of his produce for freight as the farmer who ships beef.

Second: Cattle are bred, grow, and thrive on the natural grass of the country. That is to say, nature provides the means for cattle growing, and man has only to take advantage of it. As conditions have been, and are yet in all but the most thickly settled districts, there is abundant free pasturage. The land costs nothing; the grain costs nothing. And the owner of a bunch of cattle is recognized as doing a good thing for the public when he turns the waste grass into profitable beef, even though the profit is his own. The grain farmer must own land, and machinery, and teams, and must largely employ labor, in order to get a return.

Third: As the support of cattle is the natural grass of the country which never fails, the cattle raiser does not take the same risks from climatic disturbances that the farmer who depends on grain does.

Of course all these advantages are of no account if cattle raising does not pay as compared with grain. But it is in that comparison that the cattle industry shows best; and still better considered as an addition to and in connection with grain raising. Cattle can be raised separately from and entirely without grain, but they can be raised very much better and more profitably in connection with grain and to furnish a market for cheap, coarse and fine grain which is unsuitable for export. It is in this feature of the cattle industry as concerning this district that special attention is desired to be drawn.

This district raises good wheat and lots of it. But it exports still more in oats, barley and roots. These crops are so profitably exportable, in their raw state, but when turned into beef which is exportable they are much more profitable and the profit is much more certain than in the case of wheat. At present the Edmonton district, including Leduc and Wetaskiwin, has hundreds of thousands of bushels of oats in store awaiting a rise in the market which may or may not take place; and at the same time the same district has sold this season several thousand head of young cattle, which if sold would have made a profitable margin, or a large portion of our surplus grain. The money would have been earned and there would have been no expense in marketing. At Lacombe alone 70 head of young cattle were purchased by one firm in this month. The cattle sold to settlers in that vicinity who would winter them and turn them out at a handsome profit next summer. And none of these Lacombe cattle had any better facilities for raising profit than have the majority of the men who sold the stock in the Edmonton district, and go to the market for the same reason. Indeed as there is more money grain to be bought at Edmonton than at Lacombe they have not as good a market.

A further instance: P. Burns & Co. are selling 7,000 head of young cattle, some fifty miles north-east of the city. They purchased a large proportion of these cattle in the north country. They are compelled to buy the young cattle and winter them on hay and up by contract in order to be in a position to have fat beef in the spring. The farmer who owned the young cattle could have held and fed them economically than Burns & Co. could, and have seen fit to go to Burns and sell them, or to buy them, or to sell them to winter the cattle this way, but can't take chances on getting beef when he wants it.

These facts establish the demand for beef in spring and that there is a profit in providing it. As to the profit: J. Duggan, purchasing agent for Burns & Co., recently informed the Bulletin that they paid $25 to $32 for two year olds in October for wintering. If fed hay and chop during the winter and sheltered in sheds they are worth $40 to $45 in April. If fed only hay in winter and held and fattened on the grass in summer they are worth $36 to $45. The difference between the fall and spring prices is about $15 a head and as between fall and summer prices, say $12 a head, to pay for six months feed, much of which would otherwise be waste.

NEWS FROM THE FAR NORTH

The new church under construction at Lesser Slave lake by the Roman Catholic mission, will be a credit to that place. It will be large and beautiful when completed.

C. N. R. Construction

The past year was quite an active one for the C. N. R. in railway construction as work was undertaken on no less than nine branches and extensions and although the season was backward there was a considerable lot of grading and tracklaying accomplished. A summary of the work shows that 226 miles were graded and 192 miles of track laid. This work was done on the following branches and extensions:

Emerson branch—14 miles graded and 14 miles of track laid.
G. man branch—8 miles graded and 8 miles of track laid.
Neepawa branch—34 miles graded and 34 miles of track laid.
McCreary branch—36 miles graded and 16 miles of track laid.
Rosebush branch—29 miles graded and 29 miles of track laid.
Hudson's Bay branch—35 miles graded and no track laid.
Prince Albert extension—50 miles graded and 10 miles of track laid.

Burrard Election

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 21.—Chris. F. McPherson, R. G. McPherson and Dr. G. R. McPherson were yesterday nominated for the vacant seat of Burrard in the federal house. There was very little public interest, as the result is on almost foregone conclusion, though the chances of the independents seem to improve every day. Both McPhersons and Foley have made a good impression but the government forces are working hard and a big majority vote for McPherson is certain in the city. Attention will go government by a large plurality, but at other outside points Foley is forecasted as a winner. The voting strength in these, however, will not be sufficient to connect the result in Vancouver. The mass meeting last night was largely patronized.

HOCKEY AT ST. ALBERT

Recognizing that nothing is more healthful or more conducive to the development and regulation of the young men of St. Albert, the first challenge received was from the Nationals of Edmonton. Our boys were a little dubious about accepting the challenge of so strong a team; but recognizing that the only way to learn the fine points of the game is to go against a strong aggregation they decided to accept.

On the appointed day, long before the time for which the game was scheduled, the crowd began to gather. Every coil of advantage was occupied, the crowd being so dense that all traffic across the bridge had to be suspended.

The Nationals were the first to appear and were heartily applauded. But when the St. Albert team appeared on the ice, a mighty cheer went forth, then the whole assemblage sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Promptly at three o'clock referee J. H. Chave sounded the gong, and then commenced one of the most sensational games of hockey that was ever played in the Northwest. The Nationals played a most remarkable game, a game that was replete with brilliant misplays, and starting shots on goal, every one of which came within twenty feet of the St. Albert goal, and only for the clever stops made by J. H. Chave, goal keeper, the story of the game might be different. His work was all the more clever, as it was only the third time he had skated on and had to hold on to the goal with one hand to keep himself from falling.

Shortly after the game started, J. H. Chave, who played point for St. Albert, secured the puck, rushed up the ice, and scored the first goal for St. Albert. The Nationals then lodged a protest against Beauchamp claiming that any player who could skate the entire length of the rink in five minutes, or who could knock the puck more than ten feet was a professional and should be ruled out. But the referee disallowed the protest, and Beauchamp kept on playing repeating the trick, or scoring whenever he felt like it. Time and again the Nationals elicited rounds of applause by the remarkable facility with which they always missed the puck. At half time the score stood 6-0 in favor of St. Albert.

Shortly after play commenced in the second half, six of the St. Albert players were ruled out for heavy checking, and while they were gracing the bridge piers, the Nationals made a supreme effort to score. They rained shot after shot on the goal, all of which were cleverly stopped by Beauchamp. At last by a clever combination play, Beauchamp scored for the Nationals their first and only goal.

After the St. Albert players returned to the ice six more minutes were scored in rapid succession. After the 12th goal had been scored, your correspondent grew so wildly enthusiastic, that he lost track of the goals scored. Beauchamp scored in a blaze of glory for the St. Albert team, who feel great over the result.

ST. ALBERT, Jan. 25.
The arrival of the C. P. R. is up to the very superior, and the company surveys north to a Strathcona.

A collection of the Methodist mission of the district is announced to be held in Edmonton on Feb. 2nd, 4th and 5th.

A game of hockey between the second teams of the Edmonton and Strathcona clubs has been arranged for Tuesday night at Hawthorne's rink, Strathcona.

Mr. Robert's well known horse and carriage business has been a success. The top of the well is 93 feet above low water level of the river. At fifty-two feet down a splendid seam of coal was struck six feet in thickness.

Robert McKernan is advertising for tenders for the building of brick from the yards to his premises, for the purpose of the erection of a three-story brick hotel on the site of his present hotel. He proposes to copy the old building back seventy feet and build in front of it.

Mr. D. Alton spent a few days this week visiting friends and renewing acquaintanceships in Strathcona. Mr. Alton is in the employ of the C. P. R. as a bridge foreman. The present is a busy season in bridge work on the main line owing to the destruction wrought last summer by high water.

W. H. Cushing, of Calgary, paid a visit this week to the north country. On Wednesday he and Mr. Ervin, the company's manager in Strathcona, went to Fort Saskatchewan and arranged to open a branch of Cushing's number business there. They will leave for the north on Friday.

WETASKIWIN

Times, Jan. 22.

Considerable Hudson's Bay land has been sold during the past few days. Word has just been received that Dr. Harry Howe, dentist, from Ontario, has shipped his dental instruments and office furniture, and will open an office here in a few days.

N. A. Smith has purchased 400 acres of Hudson's Bay land at the head of Dried Meat lake for his son Oliver N. Smith, of Trout lake city, Mich.

Today J. C. Saph sold lots 7 and 8 in block 1 to E. Bower, of Duhamel, and three lots 18-19 and 20 in block B. to H. Mallett, of the same place. The money consideration for the last three lots was $300 per lot.

Mary, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. LaPointe, passed quietly away on Saturday last at four p. m. The death occurred at her home, twenty-five miles southeast of town, after an illness of but three days. Deceased was twenty years of age on her last birthday, and her sorrowing parents have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

Andrew Vold, one of the old settlers of the district is dead, the result of an accident. While felling a tree on his farm near Asker, he was struck by a falling limb and was carried home unconscious, death taking place without him regaining his senses. Mr. Vold had cut the tree through, but in falling it struck another, knocking off a large branch which struck him on the forehead. He died Tuesday morning at two o'clock, thirteen hours after the accident.

We regret to learn of the death from apoplexy of Mrs. Eric Froedin, who passed away at four o'clock Wednesday morning leaving behind a sorrowing husband and two children, a son nineteen years of age, and a little daughter of eleven, who will never more know the pleasure of a mother's love. Deceased was but forty-six years of age and her death will be the cause of great surprise and sorrow to her friends. The funeral was on the point of leaving for California when the stroke came and the grim reaper gathered in their loving helpmeet and guide. The funeral left the Baptist church this morning for the cemetery, where interment took place. Rev. Ohman conducting the services.
